This is a 3-piece vintage set that can be split to just the dresser or just the bedside tables if you'd like, but there's a savings to purchase all three together.

These are probably from the 1910s-20s, a dark wood finish, very solid all-wood, and beautiful deco-type style with the waterfall lines that were popular at the time. Little flaws here and there are pictured but don't take away from the beauty of the pieces and I've always received compliments on them. The bedside tables are on casters so they roll! If you wanted to, you might be able to remove the casters, though I haven't investigated that. The dresser is not on casters. The top drawer of the dresser seems to swell in our humid weather so this time of year I choose not to push it all the way closed so that it's always easy to open because it does stick for a better part of the year in this type of climate, you can see that in the photo.

I'm only letting them go because I'm selling ALL my furniture before my next move. I bought these in Austin in 2011 for $500 at a cool estate sale, so I'm selling them for nearly half that price and the price is firm since it's set so low. You can purchase the bedside tables for $90 for the dresser and drawers for $185. A bit on $260.
